SAVANNAH, Ga. - The Armstrong State University women's tennis team will celebrate the longest current home winning streak in collegiate tennis this Wednesday when the top-ranked Pirates host Flagler College at 2:00 p.m. at Bacon Park.

The Pirates have currently won 151 consecutive home matches, a streak that dates back to March 13, 2003. The University of Florida women's tennis team currently owns a 143 consecutive home match winning streak, the longest in NCAA Division I. Ohio State's men's tennis team had its 200 consecutive home match winning streak halted on March 7 against top-ranked Oklahoma, the longest home winning streak in collegiate men's tennis history.

In the time since the streak began, Armstrong has captured six national titles (2005, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2012, 2013) and won 11 consecutive Peach Belt Conference regular season and tournament titles.

Armstrong's current target is BYU Hawai'i. The Seasideers own the longest home match winning streak in NCAA Division II history with 207 consecutive home wins between 1998 and 2013. The two schools have engaged in a duel atop the DII women's tennis landscape with the Pirates capturing eight NCAA Division II national championships and the Seasideers capturing seven, ranking 1-2 in history.

Join us at Bacon Park on Wednesday as we commemorate the Pirates reaching the milestone of 150 consecutive wins and staying on track to make more history on the court !
